

Congratulations on your new Golden Sunshade!

Please read for important storm removal information.

The fabric top of your canopy must be taken off before wind speeds exceed 70MPH to avoid damage to the fabric, frame, or surrounding objects (see owner's manual for full details). Our installers offer removals and re-installations, but the reality is that due to weather unpredictability, high volumes of calls, and labor bottlenecks, it may not be guaranteed that someone will be able to remove your top before a major storm hits. While we always recommend calling your installer first, it's always good to be prepared and know your options in a worst-case scenario.

We know that it isn't easy to climb around a canopy frame un-hooking bungees. Below are a variety of extendable pole/hook options that give anyone the ability to reach and de-hook even the furthest bungees in a pinch. Once all the bungees are un-hooked, you can gently pull the fabric off the frame from the landside, being careful not to tear the fabric if it gets bunched or caught along the way. We do not recommend attempting removals in high winds. Fabric removal is at your own risk, so please be aware of the weather conditions and your own limits. Our fabric tops typically weigh 75-100lbs on average.

Once the fabric top is removed, dried, folded and put away you can relax – your frame will last through winds up to 180MPH with the top removed. Fabric reinstallation is more difficult – that's where we recommend calling the professionals.

If you have any questions, please call your local installer or our team at Golden Sunshade.
Thank you for your support!
